

Why spend time worrying about compliance? Assure it with Enviance.

As you know, assuring compliance with the numerous federal, state, and local regulations is necessary, but very time consuming. It requires the coordination and tracking of employee and contractor activities at many different levels and locations throughout your organization. The bottom line is that no organization wants to be out of compliance and liable for costly fines, fees, and penalties.

Now, there is an efficient means to assure compliance and shift resources to improving company performance. The Enviance System is an innovative and trusted environmental, health and safety software as a service application, revolutionizing how organizations manage compliance. No other system offers the functionality and flexibility available from Enviance – all delivered on demand, in one cost-effective, integrated solution.

Ease the demands on your resources

Operating a large, regulated organization comes with demands from all your key stakeholders: corporate management, customers, the community, shareholders, and regulatory agencies. Having an environmental, health and safety (EH&S) management information system that assures compliance while saving time and money eases the demands on resources.

Corporate management is confident that subsidiaries are in compliance. Customers are comfortable buying a product or service from a responsible organization. The community feels safe and secure about the environment and personal safety and health. Shareholders are assured that there are no hidden liabilities. Regulatory agencies can focus their time and energy on other organizations who are not managing compliance as well as you are. And, you benefit by having all your data and information in one central location, making reporting and auditing easier.

The Enviance System alleviates EH&S compliance concerns by:

- ▶ Creating uniform compliance standards and policies – and ensuring they are being maintained
- ▶ Assuring compliance certification with the click of a mouse; analysis, trending, and reporting functionalities are extensive
- ▶ Tracking audit and inspection findings through to closure
- ▶ Maintaining a good public image by remaining in compliance and improving performance
- ▶ Realizing benefits and value earlier than other available solutions due to faster implementation

Use consistency to assure compliance

The Enviance System is designed to map to the standards, processes, policies, and procedures that drive your business. The System is configured to mirror the way you conduct your business, so you balance productivity gains with maintaining your unique competitive advantage. The System also enables consistency in your compliance documentation, ensuring the latest standards, policies, and procedures are readily available, followed, and executed.

Certify compliance and report performance

An emerging trend in compliance is certification that proper operating controls and systems are in place and functioning. The Enviance System enables positive confirmation of compliance in a closed loop process – notifying all necessary personnel if any obligations, commitments, or constraints are not being met. The System identifies and escalates potential compliance issues immediately - initiating the appropriate corrective actions and eliminating potential liabilities. And, you can collect and provide all information necessary to report compliance performance to both internal and external stakeholders with ease.

Take control of audit findings – from beginning to end

The incentives for voluntary auditing can include significant penalty reductions and potentially less regulatory scrutiny in the long term. To take advantage of these incentives, regulated entities must voluntarily discover and promptly disclose, quickly correct, and prevent recurrence of future violations or hazards. The Enviance System efficiently manages the audit process from requirement definition to finding, corrective action, and closure – streamlining the entire process.

Improve public image and community relations

Customers, the public, and investors are more confident in reliable and reputable organizations. The Enviance System assures compliance efficiently, so you don't have to worry about the potential for costly fines or prosecution that may tarnish your image. And with all of the time and energy saved, you can focus on continuous improvement rather than simply maintaining compliance.

Why spend time worrying when you can take control?

There's simply no more powerful, flexible tool for improving and meeting all your air, water, waste, health, and safety performance obligations than the Enviance System.
